

[References are to

Pages. '}] JEFFERSON, THOMAS, Cont'd.

aroused by contest for Presidency, 82.
 bids the Senate farewell, 83.
 circumstances of inauguration, 85.
 chooses cabinet, 86.
 regards his election as the beginning of a new era, 87.
 refuses to make party spoils of the offices, 87.
 sends his message to Congress instead of delivering it orally, has the Judiciary Act repealed, 90.
 takes steps to secure control of Mississippi, 91.
 plays politics in the Louisiana matter, 93.
 assents to the purchase of Louisiana, 97.
 renominated for President, 100.
 re-elected, 101.
 delivers his second inaugural, 101.
 conciliates Bonaparte, 103.
 ignores Burr's movements, 108.
 quarrels with Marshall, 112.
 orders British vessels to leave American waters, 113.
 animosity to Marshall, 110.
 lays embargo, 114.
 chooses Madison as successor, 116.
 last retirement, 117.
 writes many letters, 119.
 President of American Philosophic Society, 119.
 domestic life in old age, 120.
 reconciliation with John Adams, 121.
 interest in the war of 1812, 122.
 changes views as to manufactures, 123.
 begins plans for University of Virginia, 124.
 sells his library to Congress, 125.
 curtails correspondence, 126.
 first rector of University of Virginia, 127.
 engages in the work of the University, 129.
 financial difficulties, 130.
 tries to save his property by a lottery scheme, 131.
 taken ill and dies, 132.

JESUS,

the doctrines of, 270.
 perversion of the doctrines of, 271.
 moral precepts of, 312.
 mission of, 358.
 his place in history, 359.
 and Epicurus, 207.

JUDGES,

removal from office, 272.